Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(CP)—(BUP)—The Big Five council of foreign ministers was deadlocked today over proposed Balkan peace treaties, and Anglo-American delegations were concerned over Russian moves in Hungary.

The situation threatened to bring about a crisis which might end the conference on a sour note.

A last-minute decision to postpone today's scheduled session of the foreign ministers came as an official British commentator announced that his government was "examining" a Soviet-Hungarian economic pact on three scores.

1. Whether it was proper for our government on the control committee to sign such an agreement without the knowledge or consent of the other nations represented.

2. Whether the provisional government of Hungary had the power to sign such an agreement.

3. Whether such an agreement affecting the Danube—the spokes-maid to give Russia joint control of the Hungarian reaches of the Danube—was compatible with international agreements concerning that river.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov was reported planning to leave London Tuesday or Wednesday. Several items on the Soviet agenda had not yet been taken up.

It was understood Britain would seek consultation with American representatives—presumably including Secretary of State James F. Byrnes—concerning the new Russian move in Hungary.

Manning States Dominion Offer Is Not Sound

CALGARY, Sept. 22.—(CP)—Dominion proposals to the provinces at the Dominion-Provincial conference were based on two false premises, contended Premier Ernest Manning last night in an address to a Social Credit meeting at the Calgary Press Club.

The first premise, Manning said, was the "unrealistic" view of the provinces and the refunding of the provincial debts.

The second premise was the "unrealistic" view of the Dominion proposals, which Manning said were "not sound."

Manning pointed out that the government asked the provinces to allow only federal education to be paid for by the provinces, while income tax, corporation tax, which was an annual grant of $125 million, and other provincial taxes, and also provincial debts, were to be paid by the provinces.

January Too Soon Prince Claims Japan Not Ready for Vote

By RALPH TEATSORTH

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

TOKYO, Sept. 22.—(UP)—The Prince Fumimaro Konoye frankly declared today that he felt the Japanese people were not ready for any January elections because of their lack of political understanding.

Konoye, minister without portfolio in the new Japanese cabinet and one of the closest men in Japan to the emperor, told a small group of American correspondents that he personally did not think Hirohito would abdicate.

Even while he spoke, noted press agent Toshiro Kato was not with Japanese provincial leaders to plan the organization of a combined party which will work for Japan's immediate switch to democracy.

Princeton-educated Kawaga and his co-workers pledged themselves to break through the barrier of the past inertia caused by government repression and to seek a wider membership through Japan.

They also planned a mass meeting to be held Oct. 17 in Tokyo. Meanwhile Konoye explained that Japan's cabinet—which he called the "Young Prince Konoye" government—was still groping for solutions to the nation's problems because they are certain just what steps Gen. Douglas MacArthur will let them take, and because of the complexity of the situation which they face.

Konoye, ignoring the Kawaga group, stated that he could not give the necessary political parties the right to take part in the election because such parties were vital for the making of new political figures in Japan's government, and to lack of a new complexion.

Konoye said MacArthur had indicated his desire for woman suffrage in Japan but that the Japanese government had received no formal instructions in the matter.

But Circumstances Justified Police Matron "Stolen"

The Edmonton city police force, as vigilant a body of law-enforcers as ever rounded up a burglar, Saturday was doing nothing about a case of theft that occurred virtually beneath their noses.

Stolen was one police matron. The "stolen" was Dale Dobson of Oakdale, Cal. The circumstances, marriage.

The former Mrs. Amy Leckie, who married to Mr. Dobson during her recent vacation in Calgary, and the department got wind of the event only after all the local police had been alerted.

Mrs. Dobson, member of the police force here for the past two years, is carrying on her patrol of cafes, dance halls and other haunts, and the department is preparing to send her to join her bridegroom in the United States.

A son, Darby Leckie, returned from overseas RCAF service recently. His father was killed in an accident about six years ago. Mrs. Dobson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Morin, Bonnie Dorn, and is a former resident of Tofield.

TO PORTIA WHITE. Negro contralto, whom Halifax claims as a native daughter, will go to the home of opening the 1945-46 concert season. Under the auspices of the Municipal Chapter, IODE, she will appear in concert at the Empire Theatre next Friday, Sept. 28, at 8:30 p.m. It will be her second visit here, as a seasons back, she was presented in her debut by the Women's Association of First Baptist Church. From then on it will be Halifax church of "from" as the artist.

JOHN OLIVER is a far as the musical reason is concerned, it is worthy of note that in hearing a rapidly-advancing artist, those who attend Miss White's concert will be assisting a good cause as the proceeds will be devoted to the girls' summer camp at Edmonton Beach, which is one of the community welfare activities of the IODE. It is a pleasure to see, however, that she will be otherwise might not have the opportunity of leaving their city homes.

In recognition of her already well-established reputation, leading residents of Halifax, supplemented by prominent Nova Scotia business executives, established the Portia White Trust to enable her to continue her studying and further her career. When she was young, she joined the choir of the church of which her father was the minister. Incidentally this choir was 100 per cent a White organization, as the large fund made up its membership. When Miss White was eight, she was one of her sisters took part in a musical festival singing excerpts from Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor."

While at high school Miss White won a musical scholarship, but as it applied only to vocal instruction, she supplemented her income by teaching at a primary school. After she attended the University of Halifax, she found during her student days even greater success and abundant encouragement, she was impelled to devote herself exclusively to musical career. Accordingly, she distinguished her progress as a teacher and applied herself diligently to improving her singing and instrumental musicianship.

Several years of intensive study, including languages and the acquiring of an extensive repertoire led to her debut at the University of Halifax on March 12, 1944. The recital was a success and she appeared in Detroit, Chicago, and other centres. Recently she appeared at Toronto as a soloist in the production of the dramatic Andre Kozlovsky, and last Thursday sang again, with her husband, who is conducting the Philharmonic Orchestra.

The Edmonton Civic Opera Society is practically set for the musical rehearsals on Noel Coward's opera "Bitter Sweet." At the last rehearsal, meeting was held at the

One of the common types of aches is that found in the neck and the head and neck. The ache is generally of a dull, nagging or "drawing" character. Usually the ache is relieved by rest and the fingers are firmly pressed along the back of the neck, right up to the base of the skull. The usual thing about this type of ache is that the ache is located in the lower part of the neck. The organs likely to be affected in this particular ache are the pelvic organs, and congestion or irritation in the pelvic region may show itself not in the pelvic, but through the back of the head.

This congestion arising in the uterus or ovaries in women and in prostate gland in men is the most frequent cause of an aching sense of the kind being discussed. In women, this type of ache is likely to appear just before the menstrual function; in men, it is also found during the menopause or change of life. An interesting aspect of the ache is that it is the symptom of an ache in the back of the head and neck, often as far down as the shoulders. When due to this cause, the ache generally disappears when the menopause is completed.

granted—and the necessary financial arrangements completed—for obtaining the rehearsal material and providing guarantees for royal treatment. Mrs. J. B. Charnick, general musical director has her agents prepared. Rehearsals will commence on Thursday, Sept. 20, at 10 p.m. Work will be continued through October and November and until about the middle of December. There will be a layoff about three weeks to resume in January.

The show will be revealed at the Empire theatre on Feb. 6 including "Bitter Sweet" will be the only venture undertaken by the company this season. Mrs. Campbell expressed great pleasure at the splendid chorus material available. There are many new songs coming forward, and not a few of the "old guard" are turning up. There is an ample supply of material from which to draw the secondary roles. But the is the case, the use of a smaller pillow will stop the ache. A possible cause is a slipping out of place of some of the smaller bones of the upper part of the spine.

An ache in the back of the head and neck which is due to pelvic congestion may often be temporarily relieved by a great deal of water in about 9 inches of hot water in the ordinary bathtub. Only the hips and feet should be immersed in the water. Massage, or rubbing over the back of the neck and tops of the shoulders is another measure which frequently helps. This rubbing give yourself. problem of the two leads—a tenor and soprano—still remains to be solved.

There is some hope that Norbert Bratton, popular lead of several past seasons, will return, but she has contracted commitments which might prevent her taking the part. However, it is expected that there will be a clarification of the situation regarding the two leads within a few days.

John Rife, who for several seasons filled the post of dramatic director, and who has been demobilized from the navy, will return to the supervision of the staging. Former members of the company, as well as new members will be welcome at the first rehearsal on Oct. 16.

This year the society is celebrating its 10th anniversary, it being just a decade since its first opera "Maritana" was given at the Empire. In celebration of the event, Mr. Matthews, the indefatigable president, is preparing a 28-page programme, which is expected to be ready for distribution in December. It will include anecdotes gathered throughout the years, pictures of the various productions and other data of historical and educational value.

The Edmonton Philharmonic Society will make its season's bow at the Empire Theatre on Sunday, Oct. 14. The programme has been planned, and of course, it is not outside the bounds of possibility that an "adagio" or "cantata" program will be tagged on in the spring. Consideration is being given to the formation of a women's auxiliary, which would perform the most essential and laudable objective of raising funds. As the program is being planned and attention is being given to the others, as well as to the engagement of soloists.

Mrs. Ernest Madden, manager of the Celebrity Theatre, expressed her regret that next week season tickets had not been mailed out yet. She said she would still herself at her office in Hainman and Company's store on Oct. 1 and would keep the office open through the season. Tickets for the series and adagio concert by the Don C. Charnick, will be placed on sale on Tuesday, Oct. 9. It will be remembered that this concert is part of the six concerts of the series and regular subscribers who have not yet received their tickets should come to the office to pick them up.

The Cossack Theatre will be followed by Vivian della Cossack, "American" and "The Cossack" will be the series as Ricardo Odomsky, violinist; Jennie Turel, soprano; William Koppel, pianist, and Paul Robinson, bass.

At Ottawa Show Jet Fighter Whizzes In Vertical Streak

By JACK BRADLEY

OTTAWA, Sept. 22.—(CP)—An aerial ropework that saw the jet-propelled Gloster Meteor streak almost perpendicularly from 500 to 15,000 feet almost as fast as it takes to read this paragraph was performed at nearby Rockcliffe air station yesterday.

Sgt. L. Sham Badoov, multi-decorated ace from Stellarton, and the propeller head, who through its press for the entertainment of peace and technical work, was admitted to some "batteries" in the war and was successful in stopping showers of buzz-bombs whizzing at London.

The plane is the gift of the British government to the RCAF and will be used for research, especially in connection with fuel conversion and cold weather tests.

It is the only Allied jet fighter with actual operational experience in the war and was successfully in stopping showers of buzz-bombs whizzing at London.

15-MINUTE SHOW. Sgt. L. Sham Badoov demonstrated the manoeuvrability of the slim plane in 15 minutes of aerial acrobatics at terrace speeds over the airfield. He also showed the plane down to show its complete range of speed.

At take-off the plane twin-jets start with a penetrating whine that turns to a prolonged scream. The jets belch waves of heat—here and as the fighter hurtles across the runway the noise drops to a rumble. As it becomes airborne, it sounds like a giant blowtorch.

The turbine jet motor spins at near vital in transport speed. The other day this light craft, over the 200-foot air strip to Montreal and back in 25 minutes.

Member Urges $125 Be Set As Wheat Price

OTTAWA, Sept. 22.—(CP)—Mr. Campbell (CPC, The Battle-ford) yesterday in the Commons called for a $125 a bushel price for wheat in place of the $1 per bushel the government has undertaken to pay during the four-year period ending Sept. 30, 1955.

The government, in undertaking to pay $125 a bushel, has had fixed the export price at $125 a bushel.

He felt the farmers should not have to bear the full sacrifice in the difference of price. If action was needed it should be borne by the people as a whole.

LEADS TO WAR. The speaker said the two great wars had been caused by the fact that the government was producing a surplus of wheat for export.

He condemned the profit system because under it some one was bound to lose money. When some one took a profit, someone else took a loss.

Industry in Canada was largely controlled by monopolies. The heads of these monopolies controlled the government.

Mr. Campbell said he would vote against the motion for adoption on the three issues. All the members of the House of Commons would be asked to vote on the three issues.

Ciano's Diary—No. 30

The Story Ends— Ruined Mussolini Ousts Son-in-Law

Beaten and Rotten Internally, Italy Heads For Collapse

Dec. 26, 1942—Feb. 8, 1943

The diary of Count Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law, ends with a series of entries that leave no doubt of Italy's future—ruin and collapse on a scale exceeded only by that in Germany itself.

Ciano was dismissed and made Ambassador to the Vatican Feb. 5, 1943. He took his leave of Il Duce three days later, but the seeds of Fascist defeat which Ciano had helped to plant in spite of occasional doubts had grown to sturdy maturity.

Italy was beaten in war, and rotten internally. Il Duce was ill. His family scandals alone would have overthrown any normal government.

Italy's people were restless, weary, bitterly disillusioned. Fascism's first great experiment had brought about its own complete destruction.

To the end Ciano never understood this. Italy's worst crime in his eyes was poor leadership in linking its future with the Germans. Ciano wrote:

DEC. 26—"Horia Sima, head of the Romanian Iron Guard, has arrived in Italy. Since he has been given a false passport, Himmler (Gotha) must have been told that there will be no loss of one crook."

"Princess Gaele, who had a cordial friendship with Il Duce, opened her heart today about the situation. 'Mussolini's mistress' is a woman, better known to me than to her. According to her, Mussolini has had enough of Ciano."

"Ciano was a brother, her sister and all of them, but he can't get rid of them because they are evil people, ready to blackmail and create scandal."

Mussolini Fed Up With Mistress?

Speaking with Princess Gaele, I have been told that she once loved this girl (Princess) but that now she was revolting to him.

"How much is truth, and how much is gossip? The Princess blames the Reich for everything that is going wrong here, including Il Duce's ailments. It seems a bit exaggerated to me."

DEC. 30—"A good point about the bombing of Rome. From a domestic telegram we learn that the Americans have said no to Eden's draconian request [that the entire government be moved]. Even in the city of St. Peter, there are disadvantages. 'That advantage would accrue for the Allies. It seems the matter may be taken.'"

(Actually an All-American bomber force raided Rome June 19, 1943.)

JAN. 2—"The Holy Father has said he believes there is danger of a bombing of Rome has been averted."

JAN. 4—"I have been thinking about gifts for Goering on his 50th birthday. Il Duce is giving him a gold sword, carved by Mussolini, which originally was meant for Franco (Spanish dictator). Times have changed."

"I will give Goering a flag of St. Maurice (emblem of the Order of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus) done in diamonds, meant originally for Zag (former king of Albania) who was forced into exile by the Italians in 1939, and kept in the AKO all this time."

Axis Blanket Is Too Small

JAN. 4—"Military forces are scarce. Africa, Russia, the Balkans, the occupied countries. Everywhere new and greater forces are needed."

"I have the impression at times that the Axis is like a man trying to cover himself with a blanket that is too small. If he warms his feet, his head is cold. His feet will freeze. If he tries to keep his head warm."

JAN. 7—"Japan would like to sign economic agreements with us and with Germany, desiring relief of influence with preferential tariffs. Our interior position is obvious. I put a stick in the wheel."

"A Soviet banker from London says he believes the war has been won by the Allies. He agrees it is easier for us to find sympathy in Washington than in London."

JAN. 8—"I have seen Il Duce after three days, and find him worse. . . . What is injuring his health more than anything else is his uneasiness about the situation."

"The Petrus brother of Mussolini's mistress has sent a letter advising the conditions of his partner, Venezia, for the Spanish embassy. Venezia is an old paladin, an unquarred man, a warrior and a chieftain. . . . If it were not for Mussolini's health, I would speak to him of it."

JAN. 16—"I think the Germans would do well to watch the Russians. . . . The sudden urge for reconciliation with the Russians is not good to me. I doubt if this would have occurred. There is something peculiar going on in Finland also."

JAN. 17—"Van Mackensen (Nazi ambassador) telephoned during the night on Robertson's orders to say that Petrus had been arrested by the French government."

According to Hans Vilsb, bound an dictator) is anticipating the necessity of making contact with the Allies to provide a defense against the Bolshevization of Europe. . . . Let to the hands of God.

Mussolini Still Nourishes Hopes

JAN. 21—"Mussolini . . . hopes that 300 Tiger tanks, 300,000 men, and the new German gun, will yet upset the situation [in Africa]. The German chief of military intelligence is in a hazy mood. He is convinced that 1943 will see the collapse of Germany."

JAN. 22—"Rue at Stalingrad, retreat everywhere on the front. Troops are about to fall. Rome again has maneuvered to save its own lives, leaving the Italians to die. . . . Mussolini . . . continues to be prominent with dangerous illusions."

JAN. 27—"Farragosa (undersecretary for war production) like about your supply situation. . . . Our continued lack of arms production is modest—between Roosevelt and Churchill. . . . It is too early yet to judge, but it seems to be serious, very serious indeed."

JAN. 28—"Col. Bagnasco, chief of staff of the 33 Division, back from Russia, painted the darkest possible picture. . . . He said the only way left to save Italy, the army, and the regime itself is a separate peace."

"This idea is taking root. It was mentioned to me with some recommendation, even by Mussolini's sister. . . . Ambrosio takes the place of Cavallero as supreme chief of staff. . . . Under the present conditions, a Napoleon would do no miracle."

His Duce Dies

JAN. 30—"His son-in-law Il Duce calls me. From the moment of his departure, I am aware that he is embarrassed."

"I understand what he is prepared to tell me. 'What are you going to do now?' he begins, and adds in a low voice: 'I have changed his entire cabinet (1936) of 11 ministers.'"

"I understand the reasons. I share them, and I do not intend to share them with the Allies. Among the various appointments he suggests, I refuse the government of Albania."

"There I would become the shadow and hanger of people to whom I promised brotherhood and equality."

"I CHOOSE to be ambassador to the Holy See."

FEB. 5—"At 4:30 in the afternoon Il Duce calls me. From the moment of his departure, I am aware that he is embarrassed."

Judge Condemns Ottawa Housing

OTTAWA, Sept. 22.—(CP)—Two boys aged 10 and 17 years pleaded guilty to 13 charges of housebreaking and were remanded until next week for sentence by Judge Alan Fraser who criticized care officials for allowing conditions leading to juvenile delinquency.

It was disclosed that one of the boys was one of 13 people living in three rooms of an Ottawa house which has been condemned by the city health department, a fact which brought from the judge the comment that "this boy hasn't a chance."

"I don't know how long we have to go on waiting for these breaking regulations . . . allowing people to live like this—13 persons residing in three rooms and nothing being done to bring them to a better place for them to live."

"As long as children and their parents are living in that manner, impossible for children to grow up under these circumstances. It is under these conditions that they are growing into trouble or at least, getting a very adverse start in life."

Renew Battle

On Grid Today

SEPTEMBER 22-CP

Football steps back into the big time today as two of the great teams of pro football, the Argos and the Riders, renew their battle in the 12-Under-Par tournament.

Only a few changes in a familiar cast were needed. Through Argos and Ottawa Rough Riders, the Argos, who won their 1941 title at Ottawa's Lansdowne Park in the first scheduled game of the tournament, are back in the game.

Day in Row

INNAN CANYON GOLF

COURSE, Spokane, Wash.

Sept. 22 (AP) — Down through Indian Canyon's rain soaked golfers and up through the dripping trees Byron Nelson of Toledo golfed Friday

as calmly as if he were proceeding down a sunlit country lane, posting his second straight 66 in the $10,000

Emerson open tournament.

On the trail of the king of golf and his 12 under par 122

were Jack C. San Bernardino

Calif., and Ben Hogan of Hershey,

Penn., who won their masters' 66 Friday and Gregory professional ranks, collected a $7.

In fourth spot with 76-138 was

Harold J. McSpadden of San Franco, who collected an eagle two holes short on the 13th to the 13th hole to help his total to 138.

There were 46 qualifiers for the first 30 holes today and Sunday with scores of 132 or better in the first round.

Nelson started exactly as he did in the opener Thursday with an agle three on the first hole. He strung his shots down the middle of the fairway, straying only on the sixth hole, where he took a one-stroke error. He had five birdies in the first round, including a double eagle on the 13th hole.

He finished with a first round of 66, his lowest score in the first nine with 35 and one over on the 10th hole.

Willie Van Cante of the same total, 74-126.

Clarke To Meet Wright Oct. 1st

Dazzler Jim Clarke, former football star from St. Louis and a top professional wrestler, has been signed to meet Jim Wright

here on October 1 at the Empire

Theatre. It was revealed here by Promoter Tommy Tucker last night.

Tucker has been dickering with some of the head promoters from across the line to secure a suitable opponent who is capable of throwing Texas Jim for a line shot as happy. According to Ted Thomas, who is one of the promoters of the Pacific Coast, Clarke is the most logical man for the job. Thomas said Clarke is one of the most scientific grapplers in the game, and just now equals Wright in size. Most important of all he has no fear of a fight.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS:

Evict Sponging In-Law Young Enough to Work

Woman, 55, Young Enough to Work and Not Impose on Son; She Should Not Be Millstone Around the Neck of Her Children

DEAR DOROTHY: I am a young couple who have been married six months. Both of us work. Before we were married we had to live with my mother-in-law and her husband. The two of us pay the household bills and my mother-in-law gets a pension. At first she was perfectly satisfied, but she has made the acquaintance of some young girls who are very extravagant and now she complains about not having enough money. She says she is still too young to be a millstone around the neck of her children.

We want to be fair with her, but we are trying to do something for the future, and the situation is getting very bad. If we do not do something, we will be forced to separate my husband and go to boarding, contributing to her keep each week, and let her live by herself and get a job. Can you give us a general solution?

MRS. C. Z.

CARRY OUT PLAN

ANSWER: The solution of your problem is as plain as the nose on your face. It is for you to carry out your plan. You are a young mother-in-law on her own. It is a great effort, and forcing her to go to work instead of spending the time prancing the street and enjoying young girls' parties. I take it that she has always been one of the parasitic women who live on the life blood of their children. She is too young to be a millstone around the neck of her children. She is too young to be a millstone around the neck of her children. She is too young to be a millstone around the neck of her children.

Your Baby And Mine

By MRS. MEYER ELDER

Because force brings opposition, the parent who can use tactful methods of accomplishing his aims gets results unopposed

by the mother who sets her teeth, the child sets his and the big of his teeth.

One of the techniques for getting children under 5 years of age to compliance is to get them used, dressed in the bed, to the labors, it is to make a story of it.

Children are enchanted by stories, especially about the hero and girls, take themselves doing the things they do in everyday life. If there is a verse in going to bed and sets up a hand when it is mentioned.

Let him know another little boy named Benny when it comes time to go to bed pick up his toothbrush, wash his face, and a story-seller, "Good night, Daddy and Mommy, I am going to bed."

Then his mother and father say,

"Oh, goodness, Benny, you are so good. At which Benny replies,

"I will take off my shoes and socks and put them under the bed. When when I am all undressed I will be a good boy and go to bed."

Then each step of what Benny does the unclipping of the shoes, the slipping off of socks, the tying and handwashing, the tooth brushing, the toilet duties, the goodnight prayer are all done in the same easy as Benny says, "I am going to bed."

The little Danny, whose ears are filled with this repetition of what he has thought, will be sure to change little Ben if he did not want to imitate the exemplary Benny.

In fact, this one of the newer boys on the verge of misbehaving by girls, take themselves doing the

BACK IN JAIL

GINKY had spent four weeks in the fruit jar which the Teenie Weenies used for a jail. He was getting tired of living on two grains of corn and half a thimble of water a day, for Ginky likes good food even though he is a lazy mouse. He asked to be let out of jail one morning and the Policeman put Teenie Weenie paw-cuffs on the mouse and took him to the shoe house, where the General listened to his plea.

"It's wrong to keep me in jail," Ginky told the General. "I have a strong feeling that I am about to be a good mouse and if you keep me in jail I won't have a chance to be good, and then you will be guilty of keeping that good from being done."

"Good to whom?" asked the Policeman. "To yourself?"

"Certainly," answered Ginky. "After four weeks in jail I owe a great deal of good to myself."

"But, Ginky, you deserve being kept in jail for having robbed the Chinaman's laundry," said the General.

"That wasn't my fault," argued Ginky. "That was the Chinaman's fault. He ought to be serving time in your jail for that robbery instead of me."

"You velly bad mouses," shouted the Chinaman. "Me catchie you right in my laundry while you robbing."

"That's all true," argued Ginky. "But you are the one who is to blame for the robbery, not me."

"Oh, you bad, bad mouses!" cried the Chinaman, shaking his tiny fist at the mouse. "First you break in my laundry and then you steal all my rice cakes and now you say me guilties for what you all time do."

"I can prove you are guilty," said Ginky. "In the first place I never would have broken into your laundry if it hadn't been for your rice cakes. If you didn't make such delicious rice cakes I'd never have even thought of stealing them. So you see it's your fault for putting temptation in my way."

"That's a very good argument, Ginky," said the General, "and if you will promise to be good we'll set you free."

Ginky drew himself up and looked very noble. "I never make promises," he said in a very superior way. "Promises can be broken and I hate to break things."

"Very well. If you can't promise to be good you'll have to go back to jail," the General said, and the Policeman led Ginky back to the fruit jar and locked him up.

"No supper this evening," said the Policeman. "You've had your two grains of corn for today."
